AT RIGHTEEN. A heart to let'
A warm, fresh, cherry, virgin heart,
Untenanted by man as yet,
New and unsofied in any part;
Who bids the prize to get?
To him who'll pay the easy rent,
Daily and hourly due a wife,
Of honest love ligan content

Daily and hourly due a wife,
Of honest love, I am content
To give a lease for life.
It has large charabers, warm and bright,
Well furnish'd with affections fine,
And drap'd with hopes that glow with
Howe'er the sun may shine.
The owner's title's good; no claim
If as yet been 'raised, and every part
Is hers in her own right and name—
Who'll take this precious heart?

AT TWESTY-EIGHT.

AT TWENTY-EIGHT.
No tenant as yet!
No tenant as yet!
Who seeks siesh property to get,
Will nowhere field, in any mart,
A better to be let.
The terms are they, payments few—
Ah, yes! the heart described above,
Offers inducements to the true
Economist in log e!
The property's in good repair,
The furniture liga been used,
The drapery's slightly worse for wear,
But naught has been abus'd.
'This cumbered with some trifling debts
Of unrequited love, but these
Shall all be cancell'd, if it gets
A tenant it shall please.

AT THEORY-EIGHT.

AT THINTY-EIGHT. AT THINTY-EIGHT.

Take down the sign!
Alas the truth must now be told;
Decay has prayed on every part;
No pauper now would take this old,
Dilapidated heart.
I'll bar the doors hang all in gloom,
Lay the affections on the shelf,
And then, into its sarrowest room,
At once I'll move myself.
There shall I pass each heavy day.
And living for myself—no more—
I'll scorn the charilies that may
Come knocking at my door.
This old estate—this heart—may do
To hide these rained hopes of mine—
For others it had bomforts few;
So then take down the sign!

THOUGHTS FOR THE PUBLIC.

The world estimates men by their success in life; and by general consent success is evidence of superiority. Never, under any circumstances, assume a responsibility you can avoid consistently with your duty to yourself and others. Base all your actions upon a principle of right; preserve your integrity of character, and in doing this never reckon the cost.

Remember that self interest is more likely to warp your judgment than all other circumstances combined; therefore look well to your duty when your interest is concerned Never make money at the expense of your reputation. Be neither lavish nor niggardly; of the two, avoid the latter. A mean man is universally despised; but public faver is a stepping stone to preferment-therefore generous feelings should Say but little-think much and do more. Let your expense be such as to leave a ballance in your pocket. Ready money is a friend in

Keep clear of the law; for when you gain your case, you are generally the loser of the Money.

Avoid borrowing and lending.

Wine-drinking and eigar smoking are bad habits. They impair the mind and pocket, and Never relate your misfortunes, and never grieve over what you cannot prevent. [Mercantile Times.

OMITTING TOO MUCH.

A green, good natured, money-making, up country Jonathan, who said every thing drily, "got things fixed," and struck up a bargain for the parties agreed to employ a green-horn country justice to put on the tackling. He commenced the ceremony by remarking that it was customary on such occasions to commence with a prayer, but he believed he would omit that; on tying the knot he said it was customary to give married couples some advice, but he believed he would omit that; it was customary to kiss the bride, but he believed he would amit that also." The ceremony being ended, Jonathan took the squire by the buttonhole, and clapping his finger to his nose, said, " Squire its chistomary to give the magistrate five dollars but I b'lieve I'll omit

The Right Rev. W. R. Whitingham, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Maryland, has authorized us to say, he has used it in his own person with desired benefit, and many of our Melical friends do not hesitate to recommend it in their practice.—(See Dr. Samuel Hooper's letter to us in the Pamphlet, which you can obtain gratis

The Boonsborough Odd Fellow of Washington co., Md., of June 20, 1848, says: As before stated we are not in the habit of puffing medicines, for "love or for money," but when an article has afforded relief to so many persons as Dr. Martin's Compound Syrup of Wild CHERRY has done, we feel bound to make it known. There never was an article in this country that has afforded relief and gave more satisfaction than this. it may truly be said to be "Sovereign Balm" as the Odd Fellow of the 6th January, 1848, calls it. It also differs from most other remedies in being remarkably pleasant, and in not having any of those heating, stupefying or disgusting properties, which are found in most other preparations of the

This is to certify, that I had a Horse bitten six years ago by a snake. On each succeeding year the place broke out in a running sore. Spring I anointed it with Little's White Oil, and it effected a perfect cure. I also had another horse, which had been for some time afflicted with Swinney. This was cured by the use of the same remedy. Therefore I feel fully authorized to recommend it in such cases as safe and certain. DANIEL SWITZER.

Augusta County, Va. June 11, 1847. I had a Horse with galls on each shoulder, of of the size of my two hands. He was entirely cured by Little's White Oil for Horses, though I used him every day while the cure was in progress. I have been a wagoner for forty years, and have never before met with a remedy so complete and effectual in cases of the kind. SMITH BATEMAN.

Scottsville, Albemarle Co., Va. January 28, 1847. \
This is to certify that I have used Little's White Oil, prepared and sold only by John B. Hart, of this place, and have found it far superior to any thing I have ever before seen. Its effects are almost miraculous. No man who owns a horse should be without a bottle of it. SAMUEL A. HUBBARD.
